

Tucker accepts superintendent post at MSD

James Tucker, director of admissions at Gallaudet, has been appointed superintendent of the Maryland School for the Deaf (MSD), the MSD Board of Visitors announced June 25.

Tucker will leave his position at Gallaudet on July 10 and assume his new position at MSD July 15.

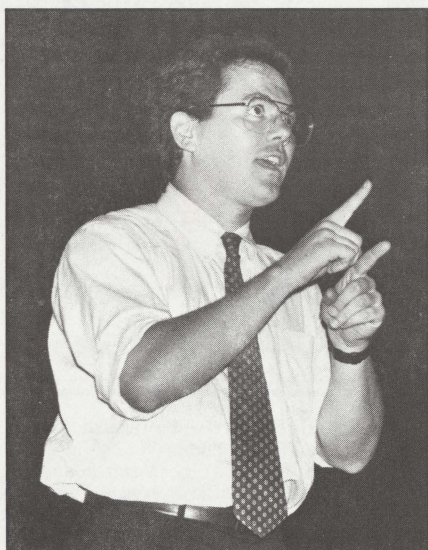

"As much as I look forward to new challenges as MSD superintendent, I will greatly miss the excitement and camaraderie of Kendall Green," Tucker said.

Tucker, Astrid Goodstein, director of Enrollment Services, and Carol Downing, assistant director of Admissions, are currently working to ensure a smooth transition, he said.

"I believe the Office of Admissions is in excellent hands," Tucker said. "The office staff is dedicated and energetic and they will continue to perform at their best. In times of shrinking applicant pools, we put in extra effort to recruit the nation's best and brightest deaf and hard of hearing students. To date, our numbers for this fall look promising."

Tucker has been director of Admissions at Gallaudet since 1989. He was an instructor in the English Department at Gallaudet from 1985 to 1989 and taught at the California School for the Deaf-Fremont from 1983 to 1985. From 1981 to 1982 he worked as an American Sign Language researcher in the Laboratory of Language and Cognitive Studies at the Salk Institute for Biological Studies in La Jolla, Calif.

Tucker graduated from Gallaudet in 1981. He holds a master's in deaf education from New York University and is a doctoral candidate at the University of Maryland.

Alumni to meet for triennial reunion, Jordan's portrait to be unveiled

Alumni will join together to celebrate the University's history and relive old memories at the Gallaudet University Alumni Association's (GUAA) 34th Triennial Reunion July 15-19, according to Mary Anne Pugin, executive director of the GUAA.

President I. King Jordan's portrait, which was commissioned by the Laurent Clerc Cultural Fund (LCFF), will be unveiled and presented to the University at a banquet July 18 in the Field House.

A rededication ceremony for College Hall will be held at the newly renovated structure on July 17 at 1:30 p.m.

Numerous LCFF awards also will be presented at the banquet. John Davis, '37, will receive the Laurent Clerc Award in recognition of outstanding social contributions by a deaf person. Dr. Gerald "Bummy" Burstein, '50, will receive the Alice Cogswell Award in recognition of his valuable service on behalf of deaf citizens.

Roberto Wirth, '74, will receive the Amos Kendall Award for notable excellence in a professional field not related to deafness. Dr. Donald Ammons, '74, will receive the Edward Miner Gallaudet Award in recognition of her efforts to promote the well-being of deaf people worldwide. Joe Dannis, '78, will receive the Outstanding Young Alumnus award.

Special recognition will also be accorded Dr. George Detmold, who served as dean of the college from 1952 until 1970. Detmold played a key role when Gallaudet first received accreditation in 1957 and in later establishing a drama department.

The reunion will include GUAA business meetings on July 16 and 17. Dr. Jordan will present a State of the University message and other reports from the Board of Trustees.

The class of '42 will hold a Golden Anniversary Breakfast July 17 in "Ole Jim," and the class of '67 a Silver Anniversary Breakfast on July 18.

"We look forward to welcoming alumni 'back home,'" Pugin said.

Alumni or members of the Gallaudet community who wish to participate in alumni activities can call Pugin at x5066 (TDD) or E-mail MAPUGIN, or call reunion chair Mike Olson at x4277 (TDD) or E-mail MJOLSON.

Loans available to Management faculty members

The General Electric Foundation recently announced the award of a three-year, $100,000 grant to Gallaudet to establish a loan program to help deaf and hard of hearing School of Management faculty members earn graduate degrees.

The goal of the General Electric Forgivable Loan program is to increase the number of qualified deaf and hard of hearing business professors, particularly women and minorities, by encouraging current tenure-track and adjunct faculty to complete advanced degrees.

The General Electric Foundation made the grants under its "Faculty for the Future" program, which since 1990 has made three-year grants totaling $3 million to graduate and under-

Andersson named Distinguished Faculty Member

Dr. Yerker Andersson, '60, president of the World Federation of the Deaf for the past nine years and a sociology professor at Gallaudet for 25 years, has been named as the University's 1992 President's Distinguished Faculty Member.

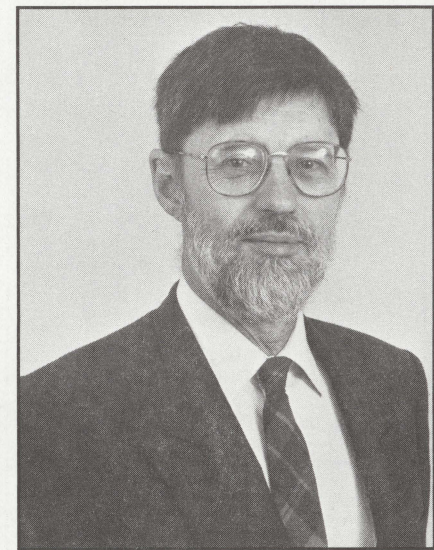

The title has been bestowed on outstanding faculty members for the past five years by the president of Gallaudet. Selections for the one-year honorary post are made based on nominations by the University faculty, who submit names of colleagues whom they believe exemplify quality in teaching and commitment to the campus community.

As the Distinguished Faculty Member, Andersson will present lectures during the academic year at campus-wide events.

Andersson is widely recognized for his expertise in the international deaf community through his writings, such as the publication The Deaf World as a Linguistic Minority, and as a lecturer. His fascination with world cultures and his perspective on the global deaf community have made him a popular professor with Gallaudet students.

"The award confirms my belief that I should continue my teaching efforts and my contributions to students and Gallaudet University," said Andersson. "However, it does not necessarily imply that I'm satisfied with my work. I will still try to improve my teaching skills and share my experiences with other colleagues."

graduate schools around the country to encourage engineering, chemistry, physics, and business students to earn doctorates and become faculty members. The program emphasizes recruiting women and underrepresented minorities into the fields and has the goal of reducing the number of scholars leaving academia for high salaries at corporations.

Up to three deaf or hard of hearing tenure-track School of Management faculty can each be awarded a loan of $7,000-$10,000 a year for each of three years. The loans can be accepted in addition to ongoing compensation for teaching responsibilities to pay tuition and fees, or they can be used to provide partial release from teaching duties to allow sufficient time for additional training, research, or writing.

In addition, up to three adjunct faculty members who demonstrate outstanding ability and interest in preparing for academic careers in business can receive loans. Gallaudet can provide part-time, adjunct teaching assignments while they are earning their degrees.

Loan recipients agree to complete all requirements for a master's degree within four years, or for a doctoral degree within six years. Recipients could pay back the loans or agree to perform full-time service as members of a college or university faculty, either at Gallaudet or another institution of higher learning. Twenty-five percent of the loan is forgiven for each year of full-time faculty service.

The Gallaudet proposal to the General Electric Foundation was coordinated by Catherine Dehoney of the Development Office and Dr. James Speegle, dean of Gallaudet's School of Management.

Other universities that have received funding from the General Electric Foundation for the forgivable loan grants include Northwestern, Purdue, Cornell, Michigan State, and Johns Hopkins universities, and the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

Pre-College personnel present a spoof of people's misconceptions about gay and lesbian individuals. The skit was part of their year-end celebration June 12.

Pre-College humorists take the stage

Personnel at Pre-College Programs ended the school year by poking fun at themselves and the controversies that confronted them this year at a June 12 awards ceremony.

Faculty and staff performed two skits that parodied Pre-College's conflicts over sign language and its multicultural programs. One skit featured performers signing separately, simultaneously, and in a musical round in Signing Exact English, American Sign Language, and ethnic variations of sign language to the tune of "Row, Row, Row Your Boat."

Other skits portrayed Pre-College's aging faculty and staff, and President I. King Jordan and Provost Harvey Corson negotiating with Congress.

The program included input from both the Model Secondary School for the Deaf and Kendall Demonstration Elementary School personnel.

"I just felt it was a good idea to have some kind of celebration to end the year with a good feeling," said Lori Bonheyo, coordinator for professional development at Pre-College, who initiated the program. "People have been very positive about this and assured me that they want to do this every year."

MSSD has a tradition of putting on farcical shows of this nature, said Tim McCarty, director of MSSD's Performing Arts Program, who organized this year's skits with help from Bonheyo and others. "What this show and earlier ones do is allow us to make fun of really heavy issues—to alleviate stress, to clear the air. They enable us to laugh at ourselves," he said.

The program included a farewell to Dr. Michael Deninger, dean of Pre-College Programs, who will resign as dean effective Aug. 1 to become a senior research scientist with the Gallaudet Research Institute. The farewell included an address by Dr. Mervin Garretson, a member of Gallaudet's Board of Trustees, who was MSSD's second principal at the time when Deninger was assistant principal.

A Pre-College parents group gave certificates of appreciation to 42 faculty and staff who they felt had promoted awareness of Latino culture and helped Latino students.

In addition, 48 people received certificates for five, 10, 15, 20, and 25 years of service to Gallaudet.

Lectures continue

The Deaf Enrichment and Arts Festival Lecture Series continues through July 21. The speakers and topics for the coming month are: Gil Eastman, professor in the Theatre Arts Department, "Sign Language Translation," July 7; Holly Roth, sign language trainer in the English Language Institute at the Northwest Campus, "Deaf Interpreters," July 9; Dennis Berrigan, coordinator of the ASL/Deaf Culture Program for Pre-College Programs, "Trends in Bilingual Education Programs for Deaf Children," July 14; and Dr. Roslyn Rosen, dean of the College for Continuing Education and president of the National Association of the Deaf (NAD), "The NAD and the Deaf Community," July 21.

The lecture series, which is free to the community, is sponsored by the Adult and Continuing Education Office in the National Academy of the College for Continuing Education. All lectures are from 4-5 p.m. in the Ely Center Auditorium.

Consejo Padres Latinos, a parents group sponsored by Pre-College Programs' Office of Latino Services, presents certificates of appreciation June 12 to members of the Pre-College community for the positive influences they have had on the lives of Latino students.
